Born and raised in extremely feudal, casteist and patriarchal environment in Haryana, I realised early in life that I would need to fight real hard to liberate myself.

Down the years, I came across Dr. Ambedkar and his writings and understood the manipulation of history that had caused so much pain and agony for my people. Fearlessly, I began to organise young students and girls in Haryana through All India Dalit Mahila Adhikar Manch.

Later, I moved to Bihar and continue to work as a young lawyer in providing better access to justice for survivors. Today, I am building the legal support unit in All India Dalit Mahila Adhikar Manch and travels across the country to support the activists.

Jai Bhim!
